MICHEL HERKEMIJ, CEO EICHHOLTZ

A WORD FROM

MICHEL HERKEMIJ

At the start of an exciting new chapter for Eichholtz, CEO Michiel Herkemij discusses the year ahead.

This year is without a doubt a milestone for Eichholtz. Our company, founded 30 years ago by Theo Eichholtz, has been built on a solid foundation of offering high quality design and truly excellent service, so as we enter a new chapter, our focus is on scaling up and globalising.

With pride and conviction, we are thrilled to communicate more distinctly who we are and what our plans are as a brand. This new concept magazine is just the start – an expression of what the Eichholtz lifestyle means.

Our main aim is to grow the business globally, building on our existing relationships and presence to become a more recognised name. We remain a business to business brand, but we realise that by creating more consumer facing touchpoints, we help and support our customers to sell our furniture. Our first stop is an Eichholtz flagship store in the Design District of Miami, which will be operated by a much-valued partner, followed by the global rollout of partner-operated standalone stores including a new Eichholtz flagship in Amsterdam.

Our digital presence too, already significant, and active will step-up this year with plenty of well-designed and considered marketing and communication material available to support our treasured partners and customers. Eichholtz has always been about these long-term collaborative relationships, so more than ever, this is the moment to set out the Eichholtz identity and positioning in the luxury design market, to deliver a branded experience beyond our tradeshow presence. To tell our story with a louder, clearer voice.

These past few years have seen the world take on challenges we hadn't anticipated as a society. The way we live in our homes, the investment we make in design and our environments are more meaningful than ever. At Eichholtz our move has been towards creating a curated lifestyle, with a collection of furniture, lighting and accessories that has great depth and choice to ensure our customers can offer that to their customers too.

The IMMERSIVE WORLD of EICHHOLTZ

Introducing our latest lifestyle photography showcasing material we are creating.

“There’s a timeless elegance and cosiness that runs through all our collections at Eichholtz, but I see each season as an opportunity to add something unexpected.”

THEO EICHHOLTZ, FOUNDER

our BRAND STORY

As Eichholtz reaches its 30th anniversary we explore the foundations on which this company has been built so successfully.

OPENING EICHHOLTZ FLAGSHIP STORES

THE STORY OF EICHHOLTZ

Celebrating 30 years this year, leading furniture, lighting, and accessories brand Eichholtz is known for offering a complete luxury lifestyle to its discerning global audience.

With a portfolio that spans more than 3500 designs, launching up to 600 new products as part of two full collections each year, the European-based business to business brand with its finely tuned creative and business entrepreneurship offers a subtly modern take on classic typologies that ensures each product is unique and aspirational. The key here is the extraordinary breadth of the Eichholtz collections with a rich palette of materials and finishes to work perfectly in a multitude of residential and commercial settings.

Guided by a passion for design and service excellence, exploring new paths is central to the brand's ethos. That means ensuring our much-valued global network of partners always feel supported which enables their customers to engage in new design experiences and be constantly surprised by what Eichholtz can provide. Part of that is our availability of stock kept in our international warehouses, ready to support our retail collaborators as well as the network of architects and interior designers we work closely with. This year will also see a series of Eichholtz flagship stores open internationally, starting with Miami in the US and Amsterdam.

As a company constantly looking to the future, Eichholtz has been a respected presence at the world's most prestigious trade fairs, including Maison & Objet in Paris and Salone del Mobile in Milan along with other leading events in North America, the Middle East and Russia. Here we present new collections in immersive vignettes to best showcase the Eichholtz lifestyle.

When founder Theo Eichholtz created his eponymous brand in 1992, his aim was to import the finest Asian accessories and furniture to Europe. Along the way he added carefully curated vintage pieces to the offer before evolving the business, in collaboration with leading manufacturers and producers around the world, to design and provide an unrivaled collection of stylish and refined products for the interiors market. Luxury, lifestyle, choice, and the warmth of service remains at the heart of the business. Three decades later, Eichholtz now a global industry player has stayed true to its founding principles.

MEET OUR NEW GLOBAL BRAND DIRECTOR

GENEVIÈVE ROBILLARD

Having joined Eichholtz late last year at such an exciting moment in the company's journey, my goal and my honour is to bring a new approach to both the marketing and communication of the brand. I'm here to help tell an abundantly layered story of a global brand with integrity, elegance, and know-how, with the ability to create immersive environments that bring beauty into people's homes and their lives.

Our narrative at Eichholtz is one of wonder and dedication, and how we differentiate ourselves in the luxury market where we hold such a unique position as a long-held industry secret. It's time to no longer be humble about who we are but instead showcase our expertise, our design excellence, and our outstanding service. We aim to do that through creating more consumer-facing touchpoints that explore our DNA and clarify it not just from an aesthetic perspective, but through our digital and printed channels. There will be more lifestyle photography, we'll be talking more about the collections, creating more marketing campaigns, and adding video content. The launch of our Eichholtz flagship stores in collaboration with partners is perfectly timed too – a fantastic opportunity to tell the story of the Eichholtz lifestyle, to bring our new brand work to life.

Giving our partners the materials they can work with to help their customers engage with the brand is crucial. Part of my work includes building a brand portal that offers greater guidance and assets for our partners to use for their own channels. One of the many aspects of Eichholtz that I admire is how we constantly surprise with the styling of our collections and how we can inspire others. We can't wait to share our efforts with you.

“Our collections are full of emotion and beauty so I’m working on how we give that a voice and identity.”

GENEVIÈVE ROBILLARD, GLOBAL BRAND DIRECTOR

HOW THEO EICHHOLTZ BUILT A GLOBAL BRAND

When I founded Eichholtz in 1992 it began as a simple idea to import antiques from Asia that I'd seen on my travels. I then saw an opportunity for us to create our own collection, starting with smaller accessories, dining tables and chairs, which we did with our suppliers. As a keen collector of antiques too, I could see how, in our hands, historical pieces could be reinterpreted for modern interiors. Those ideas have evolved over the years as we've embraced more contemporary aesthetics and built our portfolio of products but what roots us is our sense of luxury and quality.

I have an eye for what is commercially viable and have always understood that our customers need great choice and availability. There's a timeless elegance and cosiness that runs through all our collections at Eichholtz, but I see each season as an opportunity to add something unexpected, whether that's in our styling, new fabrics and colours, perhaps modular customisable pieces or adding product sectors such as outdoor furniture. Our focus has always been on creating beautifully curated environments.

Moving with the times has been crucial to the business, opening ourselves up to new possibilities in design and technology and of course customer service, the way we nurture relationships with our partners. I'm so proud of what we've achieved so far, our entrepreneurship, our collaborations. Our worldwide reputation for excellence delights me.

“What roots us is our sense of luxury
and quality.”

SPRING / SUMMER 2022 COLLECTION

This Spring / Summer Eichholtz is focusing on its trademark timeless elegance and the warmth the brand is renowned for. With founder Theo Eichholtz overseeing product development materials feel especially noble, such as marble and alabaster in lighting and the unexpected textural richness of travertine in occasional tables.

There's plenty of softness in the new collection too. From the beautifully curved silhouettes of armchairs and extravagantly oversized sofas to the sumptuousness of fabrics such as bouclé and velvet, this season feels especially inviting. Accessories, such as vases and bowls take on the whispers of vintage styling in their organic forms as do the more informal seating, especially the swivel chairs on fine brass plinths. There's a newness in the spring colour palette too that spans the signature earthy neutrals, but now moves into muted jewel tones such as amber and ruby and onyx as well. Metallic detailing has been toned down for spring with burnished trims on brass-edged mirrors and as well as the frames of dining chairs and consoles.

DESIGNING A NEW COLLECTION

Creative director Edwin van der Gun explains how to put together a new Eichholtz collection.

When I began working at the company 15 years ago, I was drawn to Theo Eichholtz instinct for developing and sourcing products. My job was very much about curation and concept that would become part of a growing collection and establish a look that has over the years become so strong and recognisable that as a team, we have created a brand and a lifestyle, not just singular furniture, and lighting pieces.

Inspiration comes from everything around me: trips to Parisian and Italian antique markets and specialist dealers, auction houses, travel, and fashion. I'm looking at defining periods of design and architecture such as art deco, modernism, and Italian 1970s glamour - it's all in the mix, which enables our design team to deliver the very best collections for our customers.

To my mind luxury, a word we use so often in our industry, has come to mean something more subtle, more suggested than what has been traditionally opulent. Luxury is as much about a feeling and time to reflect in our homes than as it is about a product. That's something we consider at Eichholtz as we put together collections: the warmth and forever style that is part of a luxury lifestyle.

While our collections cover a broad spectrum of aesthetic choices, timelessness is the signature that defines the Eichholtz look. With that comes the importance we place on presentation, the flair with which we curate collections in our showrooms, at the trade fairs and through our photography.

For the Spring / Summer collection we've focused on softness, seen in rounder, more organic forms, beautifully faded jewel tones and earthy neutrals, and upholstery that offers texture and tactility. The new lighting collection features brushed metals and delicate alabaster finishes. Our aim is always to add an element of surprise, something wonderfully unexpected to please and delight our audience.

“We're always thinking about what would fit in the collection, what do customers like and need.”

EDWIN VAN DER GUN, CREATIVE DIRECTOR

“We are entrepreneurs who work with industry innovators and part of our strength is an ability to continuously change and to challenge the status quo.”

ROBIN GOEMANS, CHIEF OPERATING OFFICER

ADDING VALUE TO EICHHOLTZ

Our Chief Operating Officer Robin Goemans discusses this year's plans and reveals more about special projects in the pipeline.

My role is managing the end-to-end operations of Eichholtz, which brings with it a great opportunity to constantly question and refine what we do as a business, to elevate not just our design offer, but the way in which we work with our customers. Our customers are like family, and we'll do anything with them or for them to make their businesses successful. As Theo, our founder says, we love compliments, but we also embrace criticism, to help us grow as a company and continue to improve our service.

I often say that we are entrepreneurs who work with industry innovators and part of our strength is an ability to continuously change and to challenge the status quo. Whether that is examining our go-to-market strategy, how we manage our supply chain, our day-to-day practices, our support systems for customers, the key is to keep evolving.

For this year a targeted strategy to scale the business in the US is a key focus. We're proud of the fine reputation we've already built stateside, but 2022 is about raising the bar and bringing the complete luxury lifestyle experience to a wider audience. Along with brand awareness campaigns and greater visibility at trade fairs and in the press, we'll also be launching a series of Eichholtz flagship stores, starting with a truly fantastic site in the heart of Miami's Design District. We look forward to sharing more with you throughout the year.

During these unusual times I've come to appreciate the experience of interior design more than ever and how the lifestyle that we offer through our Eichholtz collections has greater resonance. When our products come to life through our considered styling, our Eichholtz flagship stores and supporting materials we can add value and opportunity to our customers' businesses and ultimately to people's lives and that matters to us.

PARED BACK ELEGANCE

Long-standing relationships with interior designers are where unique creativity lies.

During the 30 years that Eichholtz has been in business, collaboration has remained an essential part of the way we operate. Right at the very heart of those special relationships that we nurture with our retail partners, are those with interior designers and architects that bring our Eichholtz collections to life.

This is a golden opportunity to showcase our expertise and help our collaborators personalise the most beautiful of environments for their clients, to offer them the support they need to create original spaces full of warmth and luxury.

NEW CONCEPT STORES

Eichholtz mono-brand stores are ideal spaces for our partners to bring the Eichholtz world to life.

Creating immersive design environments where our retail partners' customers can fully engage with the Eichholtz brand is essential for us. Our Eichholtz mono-brand stores, which include standalone spaces and shop-in-shop concepts have been a great success in premium locations such as Amsterdam, Dubai, Jakarta, London, Moscow, and Sydney. At these locations we've worked closely with our partners to ensure their showroom spaces are regularly refreshed with seasonal styling, point-of-sales materials, and new collection products to inspire their customers.

One such example is the 200m² pop-up we designed in collaboration with our client Ecliss for the Salone del Mobile at their showroom in Milan which featured our new collection. This year we're thrilled to announce the opening of new stores in Monaco and other major cities around the world. Explore our store locator on Eichholtz.com for further details.
